

Marco Ranieri is Professor of Anesthesia and Intensive Care Medicine at the University of Bologna and chair of Critical Care Medicine at the Sant'Orsola Hospital in Bologna, Italy. Past president of ESICM, he received several grants from national and international agencies supporting physiological, translational and clinical studies in different fields of critical care medicine